

Teen Volunteer Bloggers Requirements

Job description

The Teen Volunteer Bloggers are essentially reporters for the High Desert Museum. Teens will look for stories and photos to add to the Museum blog. Develop blog posts and short Twitter entries, get them edited and approved by Communications, and upload them to the blog, Facebook and Twitter. They must be reasonably proficient writers and comfortable interviewing staff/volunteers, writing short articles, taking photos and working on the internet.

Number of adult/teen volunteers Interpreters needed

4-5

Time commitment

- Two-three hours a day, not necessary every day.
- Must post several times during the week.
- It is up to individual Teen Bloggers how often they want to write posts and on which areas they want to focus.
- Teens who are approved to Blog may work from home.

Required training

Teen Bloggers will be trained on writing posts and articles for the Museum blog, Facebook page and Twitter.

Minimum age 13 years old